children at Risk
Speaking Out + Driving Change for Children

Parents are their children's first teachers and play an important role in student success. The Collaborative Communities Department of Fort Bend ISD and CHILDREN AT RISK, along with Loving Houston, are glad to share this resource guide to help all students reach their full potential.

Children can't learn if their basic needs, such as hunger or safety, are not met. This resource guide includes non-profit organizations that work with at risk families and children in Fort Bend County that school staff can reach out to and connect families with the local resources they need.

This publication was produced by the Center for Parenting and Family Well-Being at CHILDREN AT RISK with generous support from the George Foundation.
